L.A. GIRLS' WEEKEND

by Elizabeth Kang

There's no better destination for a quick sunshine-soaked girls' getaway than the City of Angels. With a vibrant, cutting-edge food scene, unparalleled shopping, and that always-exciting chance of spotting a Hollywood celebrity, Los Angeles is the perfect locale to hang with the ladies for a much-needed girls' weekend.

STAY

Kimpton Hotel Palomar Beverly Hills — With its glamorous, upscale offerings, there's no question that Beverly Hills should be home base for the weekend, and Kimpton Hotel Palomar Beverly Hills is just the hotel to book to feel like a movie star yourself. Recently renovated and rich in Old Hollywood glitz and glamour, Hotel Palomar's Wilshire Boulevard location is close to incredible shopping on Rodeo Drive, a swanky bar scene, the beach, museums, and some of LA's finest restaurants.

From the valet to the bartender, Hotel Palomar offers amazing hospitality, upscale amenities and a convenient location, and it won't break the bank. After checking in, stick around to enjoy the complimentary wine hour from 5 pm to 6 pm.

The hotel offers a fun, casual onsite restaurant — Double Take — as well as quick room service, a well-equipped fitness center, ultra-comfortable beds, loaner bikes for exploring, and an intimate pool and outdoor patio that will make you feel as though you're hangin' at a friend's trendy private patio.

As an added bonus, Hotel Palomar solves L.A.'s notorious traffic and parking dilemmas by providing guests with the use of a driver, who graciously ferries hotel guests to and from shopping, dining and other activities.

EAT

Rosaline — Dubbed a "modern Peruvian Bistro," Rosaline's chef, Ricardo Zarate, created a menu of classic Peruvian dishes alongside "street food fare" with an updated, California twist. Small plates reign supreme, as do the popular paellas, with a wonderful vegetarian version offered.

The Honor Bar — From their deservedly-famous fried chicken sandwich to beautifully presented and innovative sushi, The Honor Bar is the highly rated hot spot to grab lunch while shopping Rodeo Drive in Beverly Hills.

Prospect Gourmand — LA takes its brunch seriously, and the all-day weekend brunch scene at Prospect Gourmand is not to be missed. The casual ambiance
