

Please Sign In and use this article's on page print button to print this article.

REAL ESTATE INC.

Portland's Hotel Vintage Portland unveils an arresting new look (Photos)

IN THIS ARTICLE

Sandy Burkett
Person

By Jon Bell
Staff Reporter, Portland Business Journal
Mar 16, 2015
Updated Mar 16, 2015, 9:41pm PDT

---

When the revamped Hotel Vintage Plaza officially reopens tomorrow – rechristened the Hotel Vintage Portland after a 9-week remodel – guests are in for more than fresh paint and new artwork.

"This is a new hotel," said Sandy Burkett, general manager of the hotel.

The 117-room hotel closed its doors at the beginning of the year for the remodel, a $16 million overhaul that completely transformed the hotel with a new lobby bar and entry, redone guest rooms, new furniture and art, a downstairs event space and more. An Oregon wine theme runs throughout the hotel, from a wine bottle chandelier to rooms named after Willamette Valley wineries, and a massive winding staircase now leads up from the new Bacchus Bar to the second story.

The hotel, which is managed by Kimpton Hotels & Restaurants for owner Pebblebrook Hotel Trust, had to lay off its 75 employees during the remodel, but Burkett said all but a few will be back on when the hotel and the attached restaurant, Pazzo, reopens tomorrow.

The hotel's located at 422 S.W. Broadway.

Burkett led the Business Journal on a preview tour of the hotel last week, when construction crews from R&H Construction were still in a mad dash to finish up for tomorrow. Click through the gallery for a look at the new Hotel Vintage Portland.

---

CREATE YOUR FREE ACCOUNT

BECOME A MEMBER

Join the Portland Business Journal to unlock even more insights!

▲ This field is required

Show

Become a

---

RELATED CONTENT

Downtown hotel will close during remodel

A posh (and pet-friendly) downtown Portland hotel to get a $10M revamp

